Government Contractor Keres Consulting Secures Up To $9 Million in Federal Agency Work

Keres will continue work with General Services Administration with award of a nationwide blanket purchase agreement

ALBUQUERQUE, NM – September 21, 2009 – Albuquerque-based federal contractor Keres Consulting, Inc. today announced that it has secured a federal contract totaling $9 million from the General Services Administration (GSA). Keres is a Native American-owned general management consulting firm with specialized expertise in asset management, energy and the environment, as well as communication and technology.

Keres received a blanket purchase agreement by GSA for nationwide Targeted Asset Reviews and Disposal Support Services. The contract award, which was competitively secured in a nationwide procurement effort, allows Keres to perform a variety of real property support services – including Targeted Asset Reviews, which the company pioneered under a previous contract with GSA, and real property disposal. If fully and completely executed, Keres could receive a total of $9 million in contract awards during the life of the purchase agreement. The period of performance is one year with an additional four option years.

“It is quite a feat as a small business to compete in a full-and-open procurement – against some of the biggest and brightest companies from across the nation – and emerge as a successful awardee,” said Timothy Chavez, President and CEO of Keres. “Keres has worked diligently since its founding to provide innovative, quality services to our government clients, and we are very appreciative to the General Service Administration for their confidence in our work.”

Keres has supported GSA with government-wide real estate disposition practices since 1998. Under previous contracts, Keres negotiated sales to public bodies, conducted training for federal real property disposal specialists on the Utilization and Disposal of Federal Real Property, and established survey techniques for federal holdings.
